Nigro's Auto Body to Offer Passchal Luxury Handbags

Philadelphia Body Shop Breaking with Tradition to Sell Eco-Friendly Bags

Nigro's Auto Body, located at 939 Washington Ave. in Philadelphia, announced today that they are expanding their location's product line yet again, and reinforcing their commitment to break boundaries with women consumers by becoming a distributor of Passchal's line of luxury eco-friendly bags.

Passchal began when Ken Kobrick, an ex-welder, and Angela Greene, an inventor who doesn't even carry a handbag, decided to dive headfirst into the incredibly competitive world of the accessories market. Passchal incorporates leather trim and sides to their recycled rubber bags, keeping them lightweight and enabling the introduction of new colors and textures. In keeping with their eco-friendly beliefs, all leathers used are by-products, vegetable dyed and chrome free, and all bags are handcrafted using the highest quality hardware and materials available. Passchal bags have been featured on The Today Show, and in Entrepreneur and Rolling Stone magazines, to name a few. They have also been featured at Olympus Fashion Week and Back Stage at the Tony Awards.

Owner Domenic Nigro is excited about the new product offering, seeing it as an important step in his commitment to the Ask Patty Certified Female Friendly® Program and his continued efforts to break the mold of the automotive business status quo. Passchal handbags have been making waves in the auto industry all year since Illinois-based tire retailer Waukegan Tire began selling the bags at their own auto service center, resulting in a new bag style, the Mary Ann, named for the tire center owner's daughter. Domenic is the first automotive retailer to bring the bags to Philadelphia.
